

Clocking in and out

For controllers — from your phone and from a computer, and approving other people's times.

Why it matters

- Your clock times are your pay. Hours worked are taken from when you clock in to when you clock out, minus breaks.
- They are also what clients are billed. Invoices for hours worked come from the same clock times.
- Clocking in checks you are on site. At a site with a clock-in area your phone's location is checked, so allow location when asked.
- More than 5 minutes either side of your rostered time — or clocking in with no shift booked — you'll be asked for a reason. Another controller or an admin approves it.

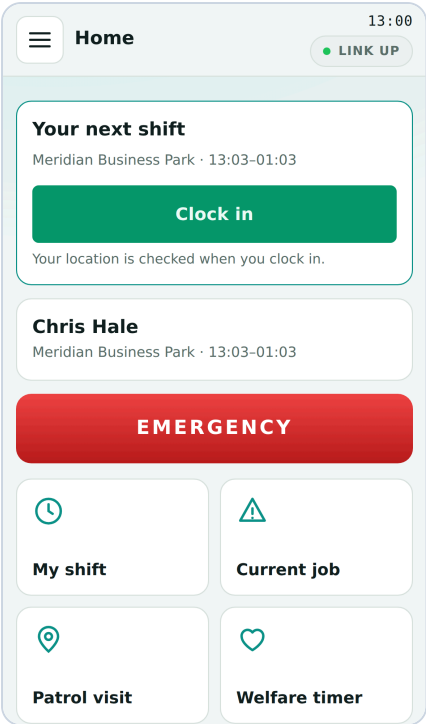

The one rule: clock in when you start, start a break when you stop for one, and press End shift when you finish. If you forget, tell another controller straight away so your times can be put right.

Before your first shift

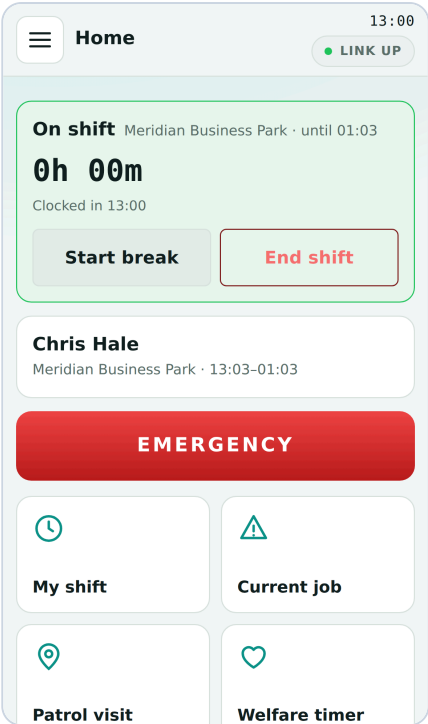

1. Your login must be linked to your staff record. If you don't see a clock-in banner on your phone (or a "You" bar on the Timeclock page), ask an admin to link it (Admin → Accounts).
2. On your phone, open comms.echeloncic.com and sign in. It opens the phone screen automatically. Tip: use Add to Home Screen so it opens like an app.
3. When asked, allow location — and allow notifications so you get reminders.

From your phone

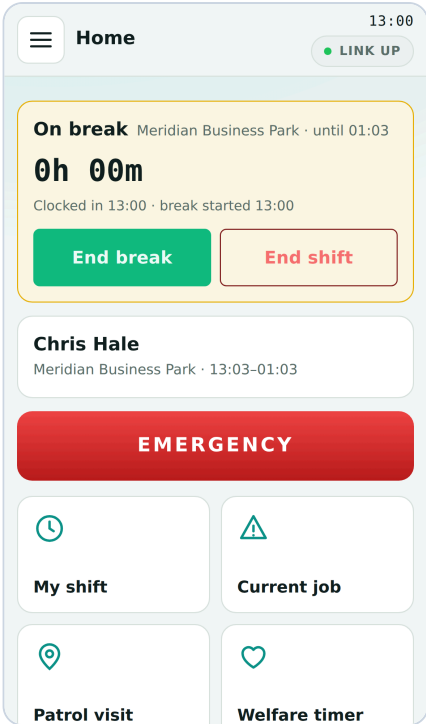

The clock-in banner is always at the top of the phone's home screen.

1 Your shift is due: press Clock in.
Your location is checked.

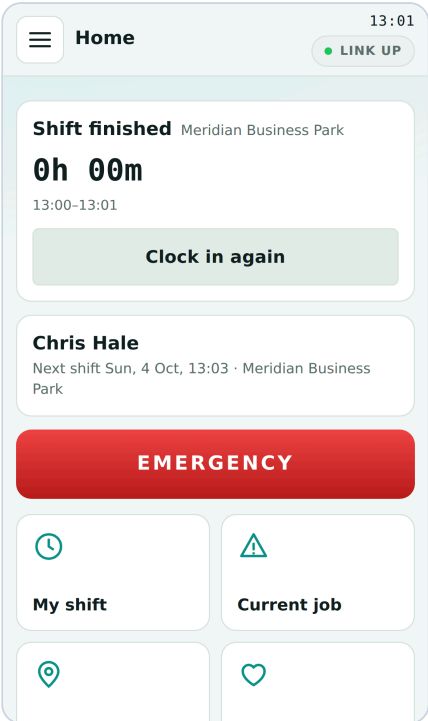

2 You're on shift. The time worked counts up.

3 Start break / End break.
Breaks come off your hours.

4 Early or late (more than 5 min)?
Say why, then Continue.

5 End shift when you finish. Your hours for the day are shown.

6 No shift booked? Press Clock in,
choose the site and say why.

From a computer

Open Timeclock in the menu on the left. Your own clock is the "You" bar at the top of the page.

1 The Timeclock page. The "You" bar shows your shift and a Clock in button.

2 Clocking in early or late, or with no shift, asks for a reason.

3 On shift: Start break and End shift.

4 On a break: press End break when you're back.

Location on a computer: your browser will ask to use your location. Press Allow. If the computer can't tell where it is, clock in from your phone instead, or ask another controller to clock you in.

As a controller: other people's times

Approvals

When an officer (or another controller) clocks in or out away from their rostered time, or with no shift, their reason waits under Timeclock → Approvals.

DUE NOW, NOT CLOCKED IN (0)

Nobody is due.

Officers clocking in or out more than 5 minutes either side of their rostered time, or with no shift, give a reason and it waits under Approvals. When you clock someone in or out here, it is approved automatically.

Now shows who is clocked in and who is due or late. Clock in / Clock out does it for them; Times corrects a clock-in or clock-out (a reason is required and kept).

Clock someone in

For someone with no shift booked (an ad-hoc shift). If they are on the rota now, use Clock in next to their shift under "Due now".

Clock in

Clock someone in (top right) is for someone working with no shift booked. When you do it, it is approved automatically.

Good practice

- Check Approvals at the start and end of every shift.
- Never approve your own times — ask another controller or an admin.
- When correcting times, write a reason someone else would understand later ("left site 22:10, confirmed by supervisor").
- A "Check time" label means someone was clocked out automatically after leaving site — check and correct it.

Common problems

Problem	What to do
"You can only clock in on site" / "turn on location"	Allow location for the site in your phone or browser settings and try again. If you're genuinely on site and it still fails, ask another controller to clock you in.
No clock-in banner / no "You" bar	Your login isn't linked to your staff record — ask an admin.
Forgot to clock in or out	Tell another controller. They fix it under Timeclock → Times, with a reason.
Asked for a reason when you're on time	Check your rostered start/finish on the rota — if the rota is wrong, tell whoever manages it.

Sign-off

I have had this toolbox talk and understand how to clock in and out from my phone and from a computer, and how to approve and correct other people's times.
