Signing in to your portal

Sign in with the username and password Echelon issued you, choosing nothing else — the portal opens automatically for a client login. You will only ever see the sites your account has been given access to.

Your dashboard brings together what is open right now, incident and site reports shared with you, a service-report summary you can run for any date range, quotes and contracts, invoices, and anything of yours on hire.

Staff names are never shown to you — only coverage (how many officers, what role) and outcomes, which keeps the public focused on service delivery, not on individual rota details.

Shifts and patrols at your site

Rota & patrols shows what is covering your site today, this week or next: shift times, role, how many officers, and whether a patrol has arrived, is due, or is complete — switch between Today, Last 7 days and Next 7 days.

A patrol shows its checkpoint scan times once complete, so you can see the route was actually walked, not just logged as done.

Any incident or scheduled site-visit report your account manager has chosen to share with you appears here, each with full detail and photos where taken.

Nothing is shared automatically — your account manager decides what is appropriate to pass on, so if you are expecting a quote, contract or invoice, you need to ask for it.

Quotes, contracts and invoices

05

Quotes & contracts lists anything sent for your sign-off, with a PDF of the full terms before you accept. Invoices list what has been billed, each downloadable as a PDF for your own records.

Getting help

06

For anything the portal does not answer — a new site, a change to who should see what, or a query on a report or invoice — contact your Echelon account manager directly; the portal itself has no support form.
